

Belittlers of Narberth Display Their Own Ideas

AT THE RECENT BIRTHDAY dinner for Mr. Durbin and Dr. Snyder at the Overbrook Golf Club, one of the speakers was Dr. J. Herbert Tily, retired Strawbridge and Clothier president and resident of Bala-Cynwyd for many years. It was evident this interesting gentleman derived great pleasure from his evening with Narberth people. He took his turn on the program and spoke an impressive piece in appreciation of his old friend and associate, Mr. Durbin. He closely observed Jack Jefferies' distinguished way as toastmaster, and he was enthusiastic about the classic manner in which Ralph Dunne made the presentation to the two jubilarians.

When the dinner had concluded, he mingled informally with the guests, and it was clear that he was delightfully at home in the cordial company. In due course, he hunted up this reporter and said that for the life of him he could not understand the uncomplimentary references he had heard about Narberth for all the years he had been in this section. He stated that he warmly welcomed the opportunity to learn otherwise, and that he would be the town's advocate should he be confronted again by the unwarranted slurs which most local residents have also heard about their home-place.

Dr. Tily thought we had something to offer his Neighborhood Club, and he urged that Narberth send a delegation to one of the Bala-Cynwyd meetings. All of which goes to prove again there are always collateral, unexpected benefits from any meritorious act or occasions.

THERE IS, OF COURSE, a natural irritation when a man hears slanders directed at the community of which he is a part. On the other hand, such castigations flow only from shallow-pates whose general conversation is of an unbridled sort and who are invariably parroting what others say, so mentally circumscribed are they in coming to intelligent conclusions about anything.

Nevertheless, there is evidence that this nasty thing has its pitiable effects. One example is the pathetic person who canvassed the Anthwyn Farms section and told the householders there that their "social tatus" would be advanced if they signed a scroll asking that their mail be cleared through Merion instead of Narberth. Nothing came of the petition to the postal authorities, but it is doubtful if the poor woman who assumed the sorry task took the lesson to heart nor paid any heed to what she was told by the forthright man who said "that it is not where you live nor whence you sprung that makes you important, but it is only what you yourself can do that counts."

That, of course, is the essence of the whole tawdry business, the sad striving to appear to be superior to one's own meager talents, and to depend merely on the location of one's own habitat for the stamp of general approval which is so plaintively and vainly sought. Of the same ilk is the silly procedure of some Narberth residents who put themselves to great inconvenience in order to get off and on the trains at Merion and who, incidentally, are the first to speak slightly of the section where they actually live and in whose affairs they play utterly no part.

Also, as in every place, Narberth has its quota of uneasy people who frigidly abstain from everything which occurs in their own neighborhood, obviously suffering from a grievous case of stuffy self-importance which has them helpless in its grip. For such afflicted residents there should be more concern than censure. It is not necessary, of course, for anyone to take part in everything, nor, in fact, in anything, but it would be reasonable to expect a kindly and tolerant attitude towards the various ventures of good intent which hold forth, even when one can't help directly, and not to be always and insufferably holding aloof in a snooty way, as if molded from finer clay, when the call goes out for general cooperation.

Home is not only the roof-tree of sticks and stones which we physically occupy, but also the particular environment in which we have our being, and loyalty is one of the elementary requirements of the civic set-up. If, when the curtain drops, the place where we have lived is not a better place because we lived there, it means that ours has been a lesser and inadequate role, and that goes whether our mail comes via stodgy Merion (which is not related to Anthwyn Farms, in any event) or via Joe Kelley's most acceptable office.

It is living people who make a place, not relics or signboards, and the capitol is where the Congress meets, whether it has occurred, it is Philadelphia, Lancaster, York or Washington. In like manner, the head of the table is where Magregor sits, and if one makes a fair scan of the countryside about us, Magregor will seem to have taken his seat in Narberth.

ONE REASON WHY Magregor sits here is because this is the place where the people severed themselves from a sprawling township in order to get a greater degree of freedom. They had to pay through the nose for it, as the very first thing they did was to impose higher taxes on themselves to secure the things they wanted. Surely, there's no suggestion of the bar-sinister in that kind of start-off. On the contrary, it seems to demonstrate men at their American best. After that, things never ceased to happen. People were attracted here in great numbers for the less than a square mile which comprised the town.

Check what we have here against what they have hereabouts. Behold the library (learn how it came), the playground, the self-owned bank (Bala and Ardmore lost theirs), the supremacy in sports, the holiday observances, the well-tilled churches, the good streets, the numerous borough services (some of them unique), etc.

And what kind of citizens live here? Not the rich, of course, for it is not that kind of place, but the cream of the crop as regards the percentage of decent law-abiding men, usually with a stake in the soil, who do their fair part in workaday tasks and who contribute as best they can to the tall made on their charity and for the good things that happen in this community.

Talent is respected in this borough, and it exists here aplenty. There is, however, no special reverence for that skill at money-making which is often sanctified, but which experience indicates is apt to narrow a man in the particular

Storm Drain to Cost Borough $616

Work Is Boro's Share of Road Curve Project

New Road Eliminates Dangerous Curve In Wynnewood

Narberth Borough's shares in the cost of the new cut-off to eliminate the dangerous East Wynnewood Rd. curve was estimated this week by a State Highway Department official.

"Narberth is committed to pay for the installation of 36 feet of storm drainage pipe that will connect our drain pipes with Indian Creek at Elmwood Avenue," he said.

Township to Pay $5,000
"The Seaboard Construction Co. has contracted to do the State's share of the work at $11 a foot, and it is the practice of contractors to offer municipalities the same rate for similar work."

The Highway Department does not usually pay the cost for drain pipes, but on the road curve job the State had appropriated $4,268 for installing 368 feet of 36-inch concrete pipe running beneath the new road from the railroad underpass to a point nearly opposite Elmwood Avenue.

Walter E. Rosengarten, Lower Merion Highway Engineer, said the Township will pay approximately $5,000 for the construction of 100 feet of highway to connect the old road with the new curve. He said there might be some extra costs involved in making adjustments in the Township's drainage connections because the new road is a few feet higher than the old.

Entire Cost $25,000
State engineers have designed a banked elevation on the new 14 degree curve to make for safer driving. The old road was flat and the curve, the most dangerous in Lower Merion Township, was more than 30 degrees. The entire job will cost approximately $25,000.

Rosengarten said there are still several engineering problems to be solved in the installation of the 36 feet of pipe in Narberth.

A 24-inch sanitary sewer, gas and power lines run underneath the old section of E. Wynnewood Rd. and the engineers have not decided whether the new section of storm drain pipe will be built over or under them.

Test holes will have to be dug to determine how deep an excavation must be made. Work on the project is at a standstill now because of the recent snow storm. A superintendent for the contractor said it will be necessary to wait until the frost is out of the ground before surfacing can start.

School Officials Speak At B-C Club Meeting

Burlingame's Talk Highlights "School Night" Program

Five high officials of the Lower Merion School District explained the structure and functioning of the Township's school system at Tuesday's annual School Night meeting of the Bala-Cynwyd Neighborhood Club.

Highlight of the evening was a thorough exposition of "The Functions of the School Board" by its president, E. E. Burlingame, first speaker of the evening to be introduced by Club President Robert F. Brown.

F. A. Dubois Speaks
Frank A. Dubois, Lower Merion School superintendent, told the meeting of the administrative problems faced by the school system, stressing what he termed "the investment value of school tax money."

"Money spent on our schools," he said, "is not money wasted, but is a sound investment for the future of our children and our community."

The Senior High School and its relation to the rest of the school system and to the Township was discussed by George H. Gilbert, Lower Merion High School principal, who told the club members and their guests of the numerous courses offered in the high school.

Snow Asks Question
Edward H. Snow, principal of the Ardmore Junior High School, speaking on "The Philosophy of the Junior High School," told the audience that the role of the junior high was to bridge the gap between the secondary school and the high school.

Narberth Pastor Asks $300 Raise for School Teachers

Narberth, Pa.,
February 24, 1947.

The Editor,
Our Town,
Ardmore, Pa.

Dear Mr. Editor:

There is a condition in the Borough that cries out for immediate correction and that is the need for an immediate increase in salaries for the teachers of our public school. One would think that all the labor demands of the last year and the increases granted teachers in near-by school systems would have led the Narberth School Board to have fallen in line long before this. But instead the Board is temporizing with the situation — "waiting to see what Duff is going to do." In the meantime some of our teachers are in dire need.

We estimate that the take home pay of our teachers ranges between $115 and $220. How any teacher, who carries the full responsibility of operating a home and feeding a family, can possibly live on $220 per month is beyond me. One third of the salary must be going into rent alone leaving barely enough to feed a family to say nothing of clothing, heating, electric bills and the other necessities of home operation.

Our teachers are on the spot. They need an increase, they need it desperately, and they need it now. But they are not in a position to do any real bargaining, nor are they strong enough to bring any pressure to bear. They need the help of the citizens of this community who, out of a sense of fair play and in justice to a corps of faithful teachers, ought to demand that the School Board act immediately, and that whatever action is taken shall represent more than a mere token payment.

Certainly nothing less than a flat $300 a year should be considered and even that should be made retroactive to the beginning of the school year 1946-1947.

Your truly,
CLETUS A. SENFT (signed)

(The Rev. Senft, a former member of the Narberth Board of School Directors, is pastor of the Holy Trinity Lutheran Church of Narberth.)

Preservation Of Boro Records Is Asked

Business Council To Survey Narberth For Repository

A drive to preserve historic pictures and records of early Narberth has been inaugurated by the Borough Business Council under the direction of Miss Mabel Fritsch and John A. Miller.

The action followed a discussion about a "good deed" for Narberth on the part of the Business Council. Miss Fritsch and Miller will canvass the borough for a place to house the proposed collection.

Frank L. Tinker, president of the organization, presided at the meeting held Monday night at Arcadia Chios. He appointed a three-man committee to attend the next Borough Council meeting. It will include John Miller, Walter Mapes and Fred C. Dannenhauer.

The Business Council agreed to send Borough Council a letter commending the Highway Department on its splendid job of clearing Haverford Ave. after last week's blizzard and asking that Narberth Ave. be included in future snow-clearing plans.

Mrs. Harry Hollar and Miss Mabel Fritsch were appointed to attend the next meeting of the Main Line Chamber of Commerce. Walter Case and Fred Dannenhauer were asked to make a survey of equipment needed for next year's Christmas decorations and flag replacements. After the survey, which they will make with the aid of other persons yet to be named, they will submit a plan for dues and a sinking fund.

The executive committee will discuss plans for a budget in the near future.

Wynnewood's Ben Ogden An Inventor, Track Coach

From teacher to inventor is a short step for mechanically minded Benjamin V. Ogden, Temple track coach and Director of Athletics at Overbrook High School.

Ben, who lives at the corner of Morris and Clothier Rds., Wynnewood, started getting mechanical "ideas" during the last war at the Edgystone Ammunition Corporation when he worked out a scheme which cut production time for shells in half. Shells had formerly been made on laths which required hand operation — when Ben finished "thinking out" his "idea" the operation was done by foot, which kept the hands free for other operations.

Taught at Penn
To go back a bit, Ben was born 53 years ago in Philadelphia, the son of Samuel Ogden, a hardware merchant. His mother was the former Margaret Viehmann. Both died when Ben was quite young, and he worked his way through the University of Pennsylvania by teaching physical education. He was the first paid student-instructor in that de-

"But what I want to know is this," he said to the audience. "When are you parents going to tell us teachers about your homes so that we know how to teach your children more effectively," he said.

Town Talk

By DOROTHY M. OGDEN

Did you know that as we dug ourselves out of that snow storm last Friday, the operators at the telephone switchboards in Ardmore handled 77,468 phone calls? When I heard that, I stopped by to say "hi" to Herb Bruder, manager of the Main Line district office for Bell and a resident of 742 S. Latches Ave., Merion. He took me over to see the workings of the telephone system.

The office of the switchboards which takes care of Ardmore and environs is on Lancaster Pike, just above the theater, and looks like a beehive there at 5 in the afternoon. Lights flash on and off as the line of girls sitting at the switchboard talk quietly into their phones and dextrously wield wires in and out of the little holes or "jacks" which connect one number with another. It takes more than 88 girls to take care of Ardmore during a 24-hour period, and they normally handle 48,000 calls a day.

One of the most interesting bits of information that came out of the afternoon's chat was that two girls practically saved the life of a Narberth woman last week when she suffered a heart attack. She was able to make her way to the telephone and gasp that she needed a doctor. One girl kept her talking to find out her address while a second tried to reach her doctor, which she was finally able to do.

Things like that are all in a day's work for the telephone girls, some of whom have been with the company for more than 10 years. Met up with Marie Proctor, of 749 Hathaway Lane, Ardmore, who has been there for 17 years; Mrs. Ida Reynolds, a supervisor who's been there for 10 years; P. E. Furutson, head of the office there, who's going out of his 20th year; Violet Dougherty, of 2525 Olcott Ave., Ardmore, a 12-year employee; Pauline McNichol, of 223 Edgemont Ave., Ardmore, an 11-year girl; and many others, including supervisor Katherine Tobin, of 546 Barrett Ave., Haverford.

School Board, Teachers Seek O. K. to Borrow Money for Pay Rise

Public Chest X-Rays To Be Given Here

Chest X-ray examinations will be given to adults in the Nurse's Office of Narberth Public School three days this week.

Monday, March 3, the examinations will be given from 5 to 6:30 P. M.; Tuesday, March 4, from 10:30 A. M. to Noon and from 1:30 to 4 P. M.; and Wednesday, March 5, from 5 to 8:30 P. M.

The examinations are open to the general public and are free, although voluntary contributions may be made.

Court Hears That Teachers May Quit Jobs

An emergency exists in the Narberth Public School, Roland Flier, solicitor for the Borough School District, told the Montgomery County Court sitting en banc in Norristown Tuesday morning.

The emergency is serious enough, Flier told the Court, to warrant the borrowing of money to grant the 26 employees of the district an immediate cost-of-living raise.

Court Judgment Sought

Flier, appearing before the Court as a representative of both the School Board and the teachers, is asking for a declaratory judgment on whether or not the State School Code allows money to be borrowed for the cost-of-living raise.

School Boards can borrow money in excess of the budget if an emergency exists. Flier is asking the Court to declare that such an emergency now exists.

Tuesday morning in Norristown Flier made two points in his argument:

1. An emergency exists since neither the School Board nor the teachers last summer could have foreseen "the sharp and sudden rise in the cost of living during the last six months of 1946."

2. An emergency exists since, if immediate raises are not given the teachers, Narberth Public School might lose a large number of its teachers to either other school districts or private business.

The School Code also allows monies to be transferred from one account to another within the budget if an emergency exists.

Flier also asked the Court to allow the Narberth School Board to take this course of action, but later indicated that the board had placed its chief hopes in being allowed to borrow money for the teachers' raises.

Early Decision Hoped

Flier's argument was heard by Judges George C. Corson and Harold G. Knight. Judge William F. Dannenhauer is taking a winter vacation.

Because of the pressing nature of the case, Flier said Wednesday, he expected a decision "fairly soon."

Flier's request of the Court Tuesday was in sharp contrast to another, similar case on which argument was heard the same day.

The Court Tuesday also heard a request of the school teachers of Upper Merion Township to declare that an emergency exists which would allow the Township School District to borrow money for salary increases.

In the Upper Merion case, however, the request of the teachers was fought by the solicitor for the School Board who told the Court that a sufficient emergency did not exist.

Mrs. Mary Dixon Leaves Estate To Two Sisters

Mrs. Mary E. Dixon, of 113 Rockland Ave., Narberth, named her two sisters as beneficiaries of her $7,500 estate, according to her will filed for probate this week in Norristown. Mrs. Dixon, widow of George E. Dixon, controller of the Penn Mutual Insurance Co. died February 11 at the age of 71.

Hannah Supple Dobbins and Lillian Simmerman, both of the Rockland Ave. address, will share the estate.

Borough Treasury Will Save $9.75

Narberth Borough will save a total of $9.75 this month, no small matter in this year of high expenditures and limited receipts.

Members of the Narberth Women's Community Club have informed Council they will reimburse them that amount of a total bill Council will pay for cutting down blackout curtains to fit the windows of their room in the building.

Present curtains on the windows don't effectively shut out light for daytime movies, it seems. But blackout curtains used by the Boy Scouts during the war would, if cut down. Total cost will be $18.50.

ONLY ONE AUTO ACCIDENT

Only one automobile accident was reported in the Borough of Narberth during January, Lower Merion Superintendent of Police Samuel W. Gearhart told the Township Commissioners last week.

Local Anglers To Take Part In City Shows

Rod And Gun Club Members That Duff Favors Dam Building

Plug casters of the Lower Merion Rod and Gun Club are making final arrangements for competition in two Philadelphia sportsmen's shows, both of which will be held in Philadelphia's Convention Hall, the sportsmen learned at their meeting last Wednesday in Narberth.

The first show, the Philadelphia Sportsmen's Show, is scheduled from Friday, February 28, to Saturday, March 8, both dates inclusive, but excluding Sunday, March 2; the second show the Philadelphia Motorboat and Sportsmen's Show, will be staged the last week in March.

Prizes Every Night

The Lower Merionites will vie for honors with sportsmen of 17 clubs from four States, most of whom are members of the Middle Atlantic Association of Casting Clubs, Casting will comprise 50-oz. plug accuracy every night except Thursday, March 6, when fly accuracy casters will hold sway.

Prizes are to be provided every night and will be awarded to experts as well as to beginners and casters unable to practice consistently to equal the scores of the experts.

Members of the local sportsmen's club working on arrangements are Ernest Jenkins, of Narberth, and Howell and Ellen Dietrich, of Upper Darby.

Duff Asks Dam Building

Sportsmen in attendance at the meeting of the Lower Merion Rod and Gun Club last Wednesday evening were also advised that Governor James H. Duff, addressing the State Federation of Sportsmen several days ago, expressed himself strongly in favor of a State appropriation of $10,000,000 for a program of dam building in Pennsylvania—in the interests of flood control, maintenance of water levels,

Services Held For Dr. Walter Lillie, Eye Doctor

Funeral services for Dr. Walter Lillie, 35 Berwick Rd., Merion, head of the Department of Ophthalmology at Temple University Medical School, were held Tuesday.

Dr. Lillie, who was 56, was pronounced dead at Bryn Mawr Hospital Friday after he collapsed while shoveling snow in front of his garage.

Dr. Lillie joined Temple University Medical School in 1933, and later became a consultant at the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children here, and the Neerstown State Hospital.

Dr. Lillie is survived by his wife, Opal Jones Lillie, and a son, Robert Jones Lillie of Hyattsville, Md., and a granddaughter, Susan Philip Lillie, daughter of another son, Philip, who was killed while flying with the Air Corps.

Storm Brings Bids To Turn Private Into Public Road

The year's worst snow storm, last week prompted several Lower Merion residents to inquire about the possibility of turning their private roads over to the Township.

Walter E. Roengarten, Highway Engineer, said Wednesday he received at least a dozen calls from residents along private roads appealing for aid.

Roengarten explained he was not permitted to send snow-removal crews to clear private roads and suggested the names of several private contractors equipped to handle the work.

Evidently these contractors were not interested in tackling the 10-inch snow, because Roengarten said he had received second calls from persons curious to learn what legal procedure was necessary to deed the road and right of way to the Township.

Hawk Bounty Is Extended Indefinitely

Plans Announced For New Bird Lovers Association

The $10 bounty on Cooper's and Sharp-shinned hawks will be extended beyond the March 21 deadline, Barney Fischer, Ardmore merchant, said Wednesday.

The declaration came seven days after Lower Merion Township Commissioners cautioned that laws pertaining to hunting and the use of firearms are being and will continue to be strictly enforced.

More Hawks Soon

Fischer, who organized the up-river hawk meeting in the Township building last month, said it may be necessary to extend the bounty deadline indefinitely because the coming of Spring would see an increase in the number of hawks in the Township.

"Our campaign to protect the song birds is proceeding in a quiet, dignified and efficient manner. We are going ahead with our plans for a Lower Merion Bird Lovers' Association," he said.

"A prominent Township resident has promised to accept the chairmanship at an organization meeting that will be held soon at the Merion Cricket Club. As soon as we are organized, we will ask the Commissioners to establish two bird sanctuaries in the Township. One will be in Merion and the other in Rosemont," Fischer declared.

No figures are available on the number of hawks shot since the bounty was offered January 24. An unofficial spokesman for the anti-hawk group said the figures were secret so as not to incur the wrath of the Delaware Valley Ornithological Society which is opposed to the active warfare.

night when they all play bridge together at the Manges home . . .

Down at the Bala-Cynwyd Neighborhood Club's school night Tuesday evening saw George Kirkpatrick, principal of the Bala-Cynwyd Junior High School, back after a long illness. Also among the guests there were Dr. L. W. Zimmerman and John Horsey, school directors of Lower Merion; J. Barratt Connor, and his wife; W. Harlan Kilne, president of the Ard-Wood Association; Mrs. Thomas Kane, of the Lower Merion League of Women Voters; Lower Merion Township Commissioner Jack Curley, of Bala; pretty Nancy Frick, who is now working for the Ardmore Chronicle after doing a fine job for the local Community Chest drive; Russell McGrath, director of the L. M. vocational school; Fred Brill and Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Taylor, of the Neighborhood Club; Dr. S. Edgar Downs, former Superintendent of Schools; F. A. Dubois, present Superintendent of Schools; E. E. Burlingame, head of the School Board; Dr. Philip Koopman, Assistant Superintendent of Schools; George H. Gilbert, and Ed Snow, principals of the Senior High and Ardmore Junior High, respectively. It was fun to see so many friends gathered at one spot, and it was a fine sort of educational evening for the Neighborhood Club to sponsor . . .

The snow storm last week caused a lot of trouble around these parts, and not the least of it was the Wynnewood Civic Association's Friday evening guest, Judge Robert V. Bolger, of the Philadelphia Orphans' Court.

He arrived at Wynnewood Station and was met by James F. Swartz, ex-president of the association, now director of publicity. The Swartz family took the Judge to the Wynnewood Rd. School where he was to speak on "The Constitutional Bill of Rights."

The school was shrouded in darkness . . . no more than 30 people had been able to maneuver their cars out of their garages. Judge Bolger ended the evening by entertaining the Swartz family. But he'll be back in Wynnewood at their next meeting and he hopes that the weather won't conspire against him that night . . .

Had lots of fun talking with Ray Thomas and Sam Coult, of Thomas-Coult, Inc., the Dodge-Plymouth agency at 52nd St. and City Line Ave., Bala-Cynwyd.

When they gave their opening party a couple weeks ago, they hired a juke box so that they could dance as well as eat.

The juke box was slightly temperamental—it worked beautifully during the afternoon before the party—but when everyone had gathered for the evening and was prepared to dance, it started to play again. Everyone dropped what he was doing and ran to dance, but it stopped just as suddenly. Ray and Sam said it made them feel as though they were playing "musical chairs," but it certainly made for a lot of fun and an unusual party . . .

Sorry to hear that Mrs. Jim McDermott, of 320 Pembroke Rd., Cynwyd, has been quite ill. She's the popular desk clerk at the Cynwyd Bell Telephone office and her husband is the equally popular Jim McDermott who delivers mail in Ardmore . . .

Guess that's all for this week. Bye now . . .

Ben Ogden

When he graduated from the Wharton School in 1916 he took a job as a copy-writer for the Richard A. Foley advertising agency. Athletics remained his chief interest, however, and shortly afterward he became physical education instructor at Girard College, Philadelphia.

Our entry in the first World War came April 6, 1917, and April 7 found Ben in the Navy waiting to be called for active duty. When the call failed to come soon enough he transferred to the Army and was sent to Anniston, Alabama, where he was commissioned a captain and put in charge of physical training. Later he was transferred to Camp Funston, Kansas, where he was made camp morale officer and head of physical training and intelligence.

To Overbrook in 1936

The end of the war found him again teaching at Girard, but in 1920 he transferred to the Philadelphia public school system and was sent to Northeast High School as gym instructor. He was later sent to Simon Gratz High School, where he stayed until he was made head of the Physical Education Department at Overbrook High School in 1936.

The year 1936 found Ben and his family at 118 Chestnut Ave., Narberth, where they lived until 1939, when they moved to Wynnewood.

All these years Ben was busy inventing and repairing household gadgets. Saturday afternoons found him roaming through hardware stores and junk heaps. If he found a little as two wires to put together he would make a new toaster.

One of his earliest patented inventions was a blinking stop light switch for automobiles. That was in the days when light switches stuck and ran down batteries on parked cars.

Sports Invention

His inventions to improve track, his favorite sport, began in 1931 with a landing net for pole vaulters, which reduced the shock the athlete sustained as he landed in the sawdust pit.

His latest invention is a starting gate to insure that runners in a sprint or high hurdle race all get a fair start.

Ben feels that one of the chief reasons track isn't so popular a sport as football or basketball is because it isn't so dramatically produced.

Anything, he says, which would "speed up the show" and cut down the number of false starts would make better box office.

At the Philadelphia Inquirer meet in January, the gate was first demonstrated, and at the Philadelphia Public High School meet two weeks ago it was first used successfully.

The gate will start two, four or six men—there are never more than six entries in sprint or hurdle races. It consists of stalls made of steel tubing; shoulder straps are fastened to a steel bar at the bottom of the stalls and hook onto another bar at the top. The runners crouch in a starting position until the starting gun is automatically fired. When the gun goes off, the shoulder straps which have held the runner to the mark are released by powerful rubber bands.

Another of his recent inventions is an automatic foul-jumping signal used for calling fouls in the broad jump. Made of a steel tape placed along the far edge of the jumping board, the slightest contact with it rings a bell, marking a foul—the man's foot has slipped beyond the legal limit allowed. It was demonstrated at the Racquet Club before the Penn Relay coaches last year, and was used at several meets later in the season.

B-C Meeting

Snow's rhetorical question was greeted with a round of applause from the audience.

Dr. Philip U. Koopman, Assistant School Superintendent, spoke on "The Program and Standards of the Elementary Schools."

During the question and answer period which followed the officials' talks, Dubois told the audience he felt funds should be expended solely on children and not on adult education.

His remarks were in response to a question on adult education here raised by Mrs. Thomas Kane, president of the Lower Merion Township League of Women Voters.

A tribute to the Neighborhood Club's role in sponsoring the newly established safe-driving course in the Senior High School here was paid by Dr. H. V. Holloway, Delaware State Superintendent of Schools, a guest at the meeting. Club Vice President Richard S. Chew acted as moderator.

and recreational facilities for the general public.

This is part of the program that Montgomery County has been urging for the past year.

Initial steps were also taken on the second part of the dam building program in Pennsylvania, the sportsmen were advised, when Charles H. Brunner, Jr., recently introduced House Bill No. 278, providing legal authority for commissioners in counties that wish such authority, to rebuild, repair and maintain dams within their respective borders, also in the interests of flood control, maintenance of water levels and recreational facilities for the general public.

Montgomery County has more than 50 small dams that could be repaired under the program, and the sportsmen are urging the general public at this time to write their representatives in support of this bill.

Junior Club To Stage Fashion Show, Bridge

Over 30 members of the Narberth Junior Woman's Community Club braved the snow storm last Thursday night to attend a club meeting at which Cele, a Narberth hat designer, revealed some of the secrets of hat making.

Working with lace, ribbons, veiling and flowers, she fashioned a number of attractive spring hats which were modeled by Mrs. Edward J. Nunn and Mrs. Warren Benfield.

A fashion show and bridge has been planned for next Thursday's meeting, at which there will be numerous table and door prizes as well as the awarding of a $20 hat and $15 dress.

The hat will be donated by Cele, and the dress, by the Norman Jefferies Shop.

Bids Are Asked For New Boiler In Bryn Mawr School

Writing of specifications for a new boiler at Bryn Mawr Elementary School was authorized by the Board of School Directors at their regular meeting last Monday night.

The action followed the Board's decision to advertise for bids on the work, which it hopes will be completed by fall.

Eggy Engineers, a Philadelphia concern, made preliminary estimates on the amount of work to be done, and were asked to submit the specifications at the same time.

The study showed that a new boiler plant would cost $21,000, without the engineers' fee. Should the Board decide to have the plant oil fired instead of coal fired, there would be an additional cost of $11,000, plus an additional engineers' fee.

PARENTAL PROBLEMS

Door to Children's Room May be Left Slightly Ajar

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

Some parents, in their zeal not to pamper the young child, will go too far in their effort to harden him to going to sleep in the dark. Whereas it is rare that a child under 20 months evinces fear of the dark, some children from two to six, even older, sustain a lot of needless suffering from this fear.

A parent should have no hesitancy at leaving the young child's door ajar with a dim light in the hall or next room. In addition, it might be well, in case the youngster indicates fear of the dark, for the parent to pass by his door occasionally or enter his room pretending to be on an errand. This should not, however, be confused with the bad practice of going to his bedside repeatedly at his beck and call.

One of our children who had never objected to being left at bedtime in a dark room told his mother as he was going to bed one night at the age of five that X, a playmate, told him a monkey had been coming into X's bedroom at night.

Door Ajar

"Won't you please leave my door open and the light on outside it tonight?" he asked. To which his mother replied in a matter-of-fact way, "Of course, then you might be able to see the monkey." The next evening he gave a vivid account of just what that monkey looked like and how he acted. On this child's request, his door was left ajar each night for several weeks. Soon the monkey was no longer heard about.

Another of our children, when about 10, requested one night that the bedroom door be left open. This request was granted without question. In both cases the bedroom door was closed without objection after a few weeks. (My bulletin "Fears" may be had in a stamped envelope.)

In the following letter you will observe an account of how a mother tried to deal with a similar matter in a youngster two years old.

Child Cries

"Three nights ago, a problem arose which had me stumped. Instead of lying down and going right off to sleep when put to bed as he had always done, he started to cry. I went in once, since it was so unusual for him to cry in bed. Satisfying myself that nothing was wrong, I went out and let him scream. He continued for two and one-half hours. I finally went in to him. He stopped then but started again when I left and finally cried himself to sleep half an hour later.

"Last night the same process was repeated over again. But after he cried again for two hours, I left the door to his room open at his request so that he could see the

Haverford To Compete In Delco Tourney After Trouncing Upper Darby

Giving its finest performance of the season, Haverford High's basketball team trounced Upper Darby, 51 to 31, in the final Suburban Section One game Monday night at Upper Darby.

The victory enabled the Fords to gain vengeance for an earlier defeat at Upper Darby's hands. Both teams may meet later this season, depending upon the draw, in the annual Delaware County tournament sponsored by the Chester Kiwanis Club.

Haverford held a 25-17 halftime lead against Upper Darby and steadily increased its advantage as Jones and Cordes cut loose with a blistering barrage.

The former accounted for seven field goals and two fouls for 16 points. Cordes came through with three field goals and a pair of conversions for eight points. Bill Carson and Haigh had seven points each, while Ken Jackson was top man for Upper Darby with nine.

Upper Darby captured the Delaware County crown in the Kiwanis tournament last season and is expected to prove dangerous again despite Haverford's decisive conquest. The tournament began yesterday and concludes March 8.

New Guessing Game: Fulks' Point Total

Here's a chance to get into the thick of the pro basketball league campaign and assure yourself two tickets to a Philadelphia Warriors' playoff game in the Basketball Association of America.

Merely guess how many points Joe Fulks will boast by the end of the season and you're in.

Fulks has scored 1079 points in 45 games and still has 15 to play before the regular season ends at New York on Sunday, March 30.

Joe is the first player in modern pro basketball history to score 1000 points and now he's shooting for the all-time mark of 1404. Do you think he can make it? How many will he have after March 30?

Put down your guess on a penny postcard and send it to the Publicity Department, The Arena, 46th and Market Sts., Philadelphia 39, Pa. And do it without delay. All guesses must be mailed by midnight of March 15.

Ten sets of tickets to a Warriors' playoff game in Philadelphia will be awarded. An autographed photograph of Fulks will be an additional prize.

The Warriors open the final month of their campaign against Toronto at the Arena Monday, March 3.

Nunan-Slook Wins Legion Court Crown

Nunan-Slook Post No. 338, of Oakmont, captured the second half championship of the American League's Eastern Delaware County Basketball League by routing Clifton Heights, 66-55.

Springfield, Yeadon and Clifton Heights followed in order in the second half race. Collingdale still has one game remaining, however, and by winning can tie the Clifton for fourth and a playoff place.

VFMA Wrestlers In Lehigh Tourney

Valley Forge Military Academy wrestlers, who have lost only one match over the past three seasons, will compete in the 12th annual Lehigh University prep school wrestling tournament at Bethlehem, February 28 and March 1.

More than 100 matmen representing schools from five States are expected to compete. Last season, Valley Forge captured the Swarthmore College interscholastic tournament by winning seven first places and three seconds.

Maj. Roy Phillips, former Franklin and Marshall mat star, has named eight Cadets to compete. Among them are the Trojan co-captains, Bob Closs, of Lake Mohawk, N. J., and Bethlehem's Mike Filippis. Both are unbeaten this season. Close competitors are a 145-pounder and Filippis weights 121.

7 Champions In PIAA Mat Tourney Here

Seven former titlists will compete in the 15th annual PIAA District One wrestling tournament to be held at Lower Merion High School's Downs Gymnasium Friday and Saturday evenings.

Elimination bouts in 11 weight classes will be held Friday, beginning at 7 P. M. Semifinal and final bouts will begin the following evening at 8 o'clock.

Members of the Lower Merion Senior High School Basketball team watch closely as two members of the Norristown High School team leap high in the air for a rebounding ball.

The action took place during a game between the two teams last Tuesday night on the Norristown court. The Lower Merion player almost obscured by the two Norristown players is Bob Walters.

Top score of the game went to undefeated Norristown.

Haverford Junior High Wrestlers Conclude 1st

Winning eight out of 12 bouts, the Haverford Junior High wrestling team defeated Bala-Cynwyd Junior High, 36-14, on the loser's mats.

The outstanding match proved to be in the 130-pound class where, after a grueling battle, Cirillo, of Haverford, finally pinned Jeffries, Bala-Cynwyd, with a half-nelson and body press.

The two teams split even in the six preliminary bouts.

The Haverford squad coached by Lloyd Gage thus completed its first full season of wrestling undefeated.

Among Coach Gage's more consistent performers were "Bumalo" DiValerio, Fred Martinelli and Ned Hollingsworth.

Stoney McLinn Aims Sports Champions

Sports news which is predominantly about men is in for a recess on Saturday, when WIP will bring a woman's "Sports Parade" to the airwaves (4 to 4:30 P. M.) under the expert guidance of Stoney McLinn, dean of Philadelphia sportscasters and sports advisor of Station WIP.

Guests will include Betty Shellenberger, all-American women's la crosse player, and Charlotte Prizer, chairman of the committee on girls' matches of the United States Lawn Tennis Association. From Boston, listeners will hear Ruth Evans, vice president of the American Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, and from Cleveland, Stella Walsh, national AAU track and field champion.

SPORTS SCENE

By JACK FORD

More than 100 Delaware County youngsters are expected to compete in the first annual Midget Boxing Show, sponsored by Matt Zabzka, juvenile probation officer.

The show will be held at Yeadon Borough Hall on Wednesday night, March 12. There is an age limit of 15 on entrants, and all must be attached to a club to compete. Weight requirements must also be met; a minimum of 50 and top of 130.

Each club is limited to five entries, Zabzka has announced. Each entry must be approved by either parent or guardian. There is no entry fee and no admission will be charged at the door. However, each club will receive 20 tickets for every boy entered.

Every boy competing will receive an appropriate certificate, suitable for framing. There will be team prizes and individual awards. In matching the boys, age, height, weight and experience will be carefully considered.

A match will consist of three one-minute rounds, with a minute rest between rounds.

Plastic-minded county youngsters currently are competing in elimination bouts at their respective clubs to determine those best qualified.

Members of the Philadelphia Suburban Sports Writers' Association met Sunday in Norristown and drew up plans for an invitation independent basketball tournament. The sports scribes sponsored such an event several seasons ago and it was highly successful.

Fds. Central Regains Title

Haverford School dropped a heart-breaking 31-30 decision to Penn Charter courtmen in the concluding Interacademic League contest Monday, while Friends Central trounced Episcopal Academy to retain the title.

Joe McGarity's belated field goal enabled Penn Charter to nose out the Main Liners. The score was knotted 14-14, at halftime, but Haverford had rallied in the concluding minutes to take a temporary advantage.

Friends Central scored its 12th triumph of the season and the 15th consecutive league victory over two years by upsetting Episcopal, 75-40. Bob McDermott scored 22 points to top Friends Central, boosting his season total to 110.

Brooks, Boroughites Play Monday Evening At Bala; Vets Oppose Norristown

By HARRY ELLSWORTH

Three of the four top teams in the Main Line League strengthened their hold on playoff berths by winning important games on Monday night.

Brookline, by winning its seventh in a row, surged to a three-game lead over Norristown in the battle for fourth place. The Brooks, leading by only six points at halftime, shellacked Clifton Heights, 76-61, to remain the warmest outfit in the league.

Bill Poletti again paced the winners with 20 points. Coatesville, meanwhile, gained revenge for two recent setbacks at the hands of Norristown, by reversing the Fairmount cagers, 58-47, at Coatesville.

Know Your State

The progress of Pennsylvania's program for the development of aviation facilities is clearly shown by the fact that the number of licensed airports in the state has risen by the first of January, 1947, to 269 as compared with a total of 139 two years ago. The largest increase was in the smaller airports of class 1 and 1-R, which are being established in the neighborhood of Pennsylvania's smaller cities and boroughs. Private airports also increased from 25 to 1945 to 63 as of January, 1947. The seaplane bases in Pennsylvania numbering nine at the close of 1945 have now risen to a total of 18. Some evidence as to the use being made of these newly developed facilities is shown by the dramatic rise in the consumption of aviation gasoline by Pennsylvania flyers. In the period of June to November, 1945, 2,687,000 gallons of aviation gasoline was sold in the Commonwealth. During the same six months in 1946 the total had risen to 5,087,000 gallons. Under the appropriation provided by the 1945 Legislature to aid the planning and development of local airports, the Pennsylvania Aeronautics Commission of the Department of Commerce has authorized the expenditure of nearly $125,000 for airport planning and more than $975,000 to aid in the construction of airports. Markers for Planes The aeronautics development program of the Commonwealth being carried out by the commission has as its aim providing some type of airport facilities for every urban community in the state. The commission is also undertaking to provide air markers in the form of signs with letters 10 feet high at hundreds of locations throughout the state as a guide for private flyers.
